What War Moves Mean

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.-While progress measurable scaroely more than ty inches is being reported by the allies in the west, Russia is announcing stupendous victories in the east on a scale outclassing all previous The Germans have been driven back west of the Vistula, according to news from Petrograd, with losses which mention 200,000 casualties as the apparent minimut, and destrucarmies as the maximum. Previous experience has shown the necessity for discounting the enthuslastic spirit that dominates the Pet rograd dispatch writers when they are informing the world of the prowess of the Russian arms. They seem to measure all engagements on the gigantic scale of Russian distances and to magnify results in reverse ratio to the far away view obtainable from Petrograd. That an overwhelming disaster has happened to the German forces in Poland and that they have been routed toward their own frontier, indicate an incredible reversal of recent developments in the eastern fighting zone.
